Illuminated strolling show
Creation 2019

Sounds, cries, laughter, music in the distance?
Glow, light beams?
Those are probably the tubulophares.
There is always a party where their beacons
shine at night.

Of course, we could just watch them pass by
and move away.
But we'll have to hurry if we want to dance under these cheerful lanterns.
They never stay in the same place for very long.

Run to join them with a happy and silly heart.
Meet friendly and complicit eyes.
Make an unexpected encounter, let yourself be distanced, breathless and hilarious.
Fortunately beacons can be seen from a distance, they're actually made for that.

the inflatable puppets

Five inflatable structures of different sizes and shapes.

Designed as giant puppets, each one having with its own mobility and handling system:

- One carried on the back.
- Three on carriages, with one carrying the main sound system, with constant air supply: no deformation.
- One flying

The inflatable structures are equipped with autonomous sound systems, to ensure the musical continuity whenever the group spreads out over a big area

The conception of each inflatable induces a different type of handling, and thereby a different personality for each Lampadophore and its puppet: calm and tender, smooth and mischievous, restless and furtive, posed and paused, curious and... high.

the light

Each puppet carries two different light sources, each one with its own function.

the scattered light

It lights the inside of the structures, like Japanese lanterns, to create ILLUMINATED objects. Gigantic beacons in motion, they meet with the audience.

the projected light

It is emitted towards the outside of the inflatables through transparent portholes, to create ILLUMINATING objects, living spotlights.

They evoke observing and snoopy cyclops.

The light becomes a gaze and creates special areas for the game between the actors but also for the interaction with the audience.
